

Welcome to Clarity Development Solutions.

Clarity Development Solutions, LLC is a coaching and consulting practice for professionals who want to improve performance or increase effectiveness. We offer one-on-one or group coaching that focuses on developing strengths and making changes for continued success. Maybe you have a reputation for producing great results at work but lack executive confidence. Maybe you are seeking help in how to reach out and build constructive, positive relationships in the workplace. Perhaps recognizing and adapting to the communication styles of others will enhance your overall leadership effectiveness. Coaching is a non-judgmental, trusting relationship where the focus is personal or professional success. This is achieved through reflection, exploration, action planning, and personal accountability. Team/group facilitation- will help transform a group of individuals into a higher-functioning team. The transformative process involves: Clarifying your team performance goals, isolating individual style and communications preferences, recognizing and valuing your own and others' contributions to the team. These are reasons why clients engage Clarity Development Solutions. Together we develop clear solutions to improve your work and life. PS: Here is what one of my clients wrote:

Debra
”You should know that one of our directors told my boss that I was making great improvement - BIG WIN … I have to say that you "turned on a light" for me that will help me as I enter this new phase and beyond. Thank you so much for that! “
